Richmond Parks Department and Richmond Community Schools form partnership

RICHMOND, IN November 6, 2017 – Richmond Parks and Recreation Superintendent Denise Retz recently thanked 100 Test Intermediate School students for their commitment to volunteering at the Richmond Parks and Recreation Department. Test students have been volunteering once a month and have been learning about soils, saving seeds, taking bulbs out, planting bulbs, trimming & cutting back trees and everything else it takes to make Richmond's parks beautiful. Parks Superintendent Denise Retz says, "I just appreciate the partnership that this has created. This is more than we could've done had we worked on it with our staff. The students who volunteered enhanced what we've been able to do at Glen Miller Park."

In addition, over 350 students from the RCS Early College program visited last month to help the Richmond Parks and Recreation Department. Richmond Community Schools is excited come out about a month ago from the early college center and they were amazing as well so thank you so much for your support for Richmond Parks and Recreation through the school system!
